Institut Polytechnique de Paris and its five Schools

An institute of excellence

Institut Polytechnique de Paris (IP Paris) is a public higher education and research institution that brings together five major French engineering schools: École Polytechnique, ENSTA Paris, ENSAE Paris, Télécom Paris and Télécom SudParis. Under the umbrella of the Institute, these schools have pooled together two centuries of expertise in the pursuit of two broad ambitions: the development of educational programs of excellence and the performance of cutting-edge research.

A world class institution

Relying on the experience of its five founding schools, IP Paris is positioned as a leading educational and research institution, both in France and internationally. The schools of IP Paris have all contributed to the great industrial and technological revolutions of the last two centuries. Graduates of IP Paris' schools include Nobel Prize-winners and renowned personalities from the worlds of politics, economics and research.

A multidisciplinary institution

IP Paris' educational and research programs have been built with the efforts of 10 academic discipline departments, comprised of research professors from all five Schools. A multidisciplinary approach is therefore an integral part of the educational and research programs and makes it possible to create synergies between different fields, for example by promoting the application of new technologies to traditional engineering fields such as physics or transport.

A high-level educational institution

Like all its Schools, IP Paris is characterized by its highly selective recruitment process, and the guaranteed employability of its graduates at corporations, in government, and in the academic world. IP Paris and its Schools deliver degrees at all levels, across a broad spectrum of disciplines: Undergraduate studies (Bachelor's degree from École Polytechnique), Master's degrees (engineering and masters' programs) and PhDs. IP Paris schools also offer institutional degrees (Masters of Science and Technology, Specialized Masters®) and executive education. IP Paris' programs help future graduates develop the skills they need to adapt to an increasingly competitive labor market. In addition to its school's educational offer provide, IP Paris also provides 14 master's degrees, which cover numerous fields, including not only the traditional scientific disciplines such as physics or biology, but also major contemporary subjects like digital technology and renewable energy.

An institution offering an original and ambitious doctoral program

Top-level research relies on high-potential doctoral students. On the one hand, IP Paris offers 3-year doctoral programs in a wide variety of disciplinary fields. IP Paris' doctoral research activities are conducted in a high-quality scientific environment and can draw upon the work of 30 laboratories. In the context of the international competition to recruit talented students, Institut Polytechnique de Paris has also created an ambitious five-year PhD program, the PhD track, for top students who wish to focus their studies on research immediately following their Bachelor's degree. The ultimate goal is to double the number of doctoral students working in these laboratories.

A cutting-edge research institution

IP Paris brings together 30 research laboratories and several interdisciplinary centers. Research programs are designed by 10 departments who define key research areas and development of cross-disciplinary research projects in partnership with companies. The research is organized around 5 priority areas: energy and climate change, security, digital, technology, and health. IP Paris also seeks to consolidate research in social sciences, which are now an essential part of ensuring the development of innovations with powerful economic and societal impact.

Institutional organization and operations

An institute comprising five Schools

Institut Polytechnique de Paris was founded in May 2019 by École Polytechnique, ENSTA Paris, ENSAE Paris, Télécom Paris and Télécom SudParis.

Each member school of the Institute has its own long-standing history and offers its expertise to all IP Paris students. Over the course of your studies, you will have the opportunity to benefit from the academic excellence of each school, as well as from our vibrant campus life and all it has to offer.

Two teams will be at your service throughout your time at IP Paris:

- The team at IP Paris, which is the institution in which you are enrolled
- The team at your Educational School, which is the institution where you will take most of your classes. Please note that depending on the master's program selected, your classes and/or tutorials may also be held at other schools than your Educational School

This welcome booklet contains all the important contact information for your studies.

Institutional organization

Governance of Institut Polytechnique de Paris encompasses a Board of Directors, an Executive Committee, an Academic Council and an International Scientific Advisory Board (ISAB). Students are encouraged to actively contribute to institutional life at IP Paris by taking part in the Board of Directors and Academic Council elections.

Board of Directors (CA)

The Board of Directors sets the strategic guidelines of Institut Polytechnique de Paris and specifies its operating rules. It also makes decisions to implement these guidelines and rules, such as approving projects, internal regulations and the institution's budget. It reviews management and performance.

Its president is Eric Labaye, President of IP Paris and President of École Polytechnique.

It is made up of:

- State and local representatives
- qualified individuals
- staff and user representatives

Elections for user representatives are held every year so that Master's students can vote for their representative on the Board of Directors. Don't hesitate to take part!

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee prepares the strategic decisions and ensures the implementation of the general orientations defined by the Board of Directors within Institut Polytechnique de Paris.

It comprises the presidents and directors of the five member Schools as well as IP Paris staff:

- Eric Labaye, President of IP Paris and President of École Polytechnique
- François Bouchet, Vice President of Student Life and General Director of École Polytechnique
- Elisabeth Crépon, Vice President of International Relations and Director of ENSTA Paris

- Benoit Deveaud, Vice-President Education and Research
- Pierre Biscourp, Director of ENSAE Paris
- Isabelle Badrinath, IP Paris Project Manager
- Sylvaine Neveu, Director of Corporate Relations IP Paris

Academic Council

The Academic Council plays an advisory role to the Board of Directors for topics related to education and research. It is consulted prior to the Board of Directors' deliberations on Institut Polytechnique de Paris educational programs and its policy for research and the use of research results. It also makes proposals on all subjects related to IP Paris' academic activities.

It is chaired by Chantal Schütz and comprises:

- School representatives
- Members appointed by the Executive Committee
- Staff and user representatives

The Academic Council has a disciplinary section which can be seized in case of fraud committed by a user (former/present/future student), mainly in connection with registration. The disciplinary section is composed of 6 teacher-researchers and 6 users.

Elections for user representatives are held every year so that Master's students can vote for their representative on the Board of Directors. Don't hesitate to take part!

Scientific Advisory Board (ISAB)

The International Scientific Board (ISAB) is an advisory body to the Executive Committee. It is in charge of supporting IP Paris in reflecting on the general guidelines for its scientific policy. Its members are eminent international scientists whose research covers all the disciplinary fields offered at IP Paris.

More information about IP Paris governance is available on our website.

ACCOMMODATION

Institut Polytechnique de Paris has a few apartments and shared apartments in residences located either on the Ecole Polytechnique site or in partner residences in the Massy (91), Palaiseau (91), Cachan (94) sectors or in the ECLA Campus partner residence.

To allocate these few housing units, the Institute gives priority (in the following order):

- To students admitted to the PhD Track ;
- Students with scholarships;
- Foreign students who are newcomers to France.

Please note: students with housing assigned by the Institute will not be able to choose the place of residence nor between a single studio or shared apartment. There will be no systematic attribution.

As Institut Polytechnique de Paris has a limited number of housing units, we strongly advise you to look for alternative solutions on this page or on our website: www.ip-paris.fr/en/campus/student-life/accommodation

Your housing application will only be processed after your registration file has been validated and your tuition fees have been paid.

No housing application will be processed if your registration file is not validated by Institut Polytechnique de Paris admissions team.

Accommodation with Science Accueil

Institut Polytechnique de Paris has signed a partnership with Science Accueil www.science-accueil.org which can offer students accommodation in private homes near the campus.

The association has all types of furnished housing, from rooms to single-family homes, as well as small or large apartments. Prices depends on location and size.

- In the Orsay area, it is necessary to count on average between 400 and 450 euros for a room in a private home, between 600 and 650 euros for a studio and between 750 and 900 euros for a two-room apartment.
- In Paris, rooms can be offered from 500 euros and apartments from 950 euros.

To rent an apartment, you will be asked for a deposit of up to 30% of the rent, which will be deducted from the first rent.

The rent is due on the first day of rental, as well as a deposit which represents one or two months of rent. It is returned at the end of your stay, at the latest two months after your departure if the accommodation is returned in good condition.

An IP Paris portal dedicated to finding accommodation

The STUDAPART IP Paris portal gives you access to a pool of 300 private and professional accommodations.

To access the offers, you will need to log in with an e-mail address.

An admission or registration certificate will be required to complete your rental file.

Private residences

There are several housing options near the Palaiseau campus.

You can choose between a student residence or a private apartment that you can occupy alone, or share with friends, other students or local residents.

The housing market in the Paris area is always tight. Whatever type of housing you choose, start your search early and do not hesitate to make a reservation, even if it is temporary.

Many websites exist to help you find accommodation, such as:

- www.seloger.com/
- www.leboncoin.fr/
- www.pap.fr/
- www.loueragile.fr
- www.bienici.com/

Warning:

- Most property owners will ask you to designate a guarantor (who, in all likelihood, will have to be a tax resident in France).
- These sites are open to everyone and transactions are made directly between owners and tenants, the offers that appear on them are not filtered and there is therefore a risk of scam. Be vigilant: an offer that is too good to be true should arouse your suspicions. NEVER pay any fees BEFORE visiting the accommodation and signing a rental contract!

Student residences

You can also search for a room in a university residence on the CROUS website www.crous-paris.fr/ or on specialized websites www.adele.org/

Finally, you can contact the following associations:

- Héberjeunes: www.heberjeunes.fr/
- U.N.M.E. (Union Nationale des Maisons d'Etudiants): www.unme-asso.com/

You can also check the following sites to find accommodation in Palaiseau, Orsay or Gif-sur-Yvette:

- www.fac-habitat.com/en/student-residences/id-24-lavoisier
- www.cesal-residentiel.fr/en/logements/residence5

Obtaining housing allowances

The CAF (Caisse d'Allocations Familiales)

Any person residing in France and occupying a dwelling under a standard rental contract can benefit from a personalized housing allowances (APL), calculated on a means test.

To find out if you are eligible, visit the website: www.caf.fr/

Warning:

Note that you can only apply for the CAF allowance one month after your arrival in France (at the earliest). In addition, once you have applied, it may take several weeks/months before you receive your first payment.

VISALE - Assistance in obtaining a deposit

VISALE - Action Logement is an online system that replaces the guarantor or personal guarantee. This system is a «guarantor» for the future tenant.

Action Logement aims to support young people and develop support opportunities such as Mobili-Jeune or Loca-pass. For more information, visit www.visale.fr/.

Cost of living

Preparing for a period of study abroad means preparing your budget!

To help you, take a look at the table of different expenses you are likely to incur on campus. These amounts are given as a guide only and based on average prices.

You are advised to set your total budget higher than what is indicated here in order to account for other necessary expenses (food, clothes etc.), going out in Paris and visiting the region.

Student life

THE CVEC

The Student Life and Campus Contribution (CVEC), collected by the Regional Centers for University and School Works (Crous), was created in 2018 with the aim of improving the quality of student and campus life within higher education institutions.

Amounting to €95, it concerns students enrolled in initial training at a higher education institution in France.

The sum of the CVEC collected by the Crous is then distributed between the higher education institutions and the Crous to finance student and campus life actions.

Thus, the CVEC makes it possible to create, consolidate and reinforce various services, within Institut Polytechnique de Paris, your institution, and the Crous de Versailles.

The CVEC is available to set up various types of actions for students:

- Promote student health by facilitating access to care and reinventing the prevention policy on campus;
- Promote social support for students through ad hoc social support, logistical and financial support for student associations, etc;
- Supporting student initiatives by financing projects carried out by student associations;
- Develop sports activities on campus with more sports activities, an expansion of opening hours, the development of a complementary offer to the sports offer such as wellness for example;
- Bringing art and culture to life at IP Paris in conjunction with the CROUS de Versailles for access to concerts, exhibitions, cultural events and artistic practice workshops throughout the year;
- Improving the reception of students by developing support actions on campus, facilities and installations to improve daily life, actions around citizenship etc.

These actions that can be funded by the CVEC must be:

- Carried out by the services that deal with student and campus life in higher education institutions ;
- Coordinated by student associations.

Each academic year, the Ministry of Higher Education and Research defines a priority theme.

In recent years, prevention for student health has been chosen as the main theme with different fields of action in the health field:

- Prevention of alcohol abuse among students
- Support for mental health, sexual health and support in quitting smoking
- Improving access to health care for students
- First aid training

Institut Polytechnique de Paris has established a committee to manage the use of the CVEC.

Members include IP Paris BDE (student association).

Sporting events have also been created through the call for student life projects launched in 2020.

Examples include:

Ekiden du Platal: Ekiden is a marathon relay with 6 runners who run the following distances: 5km - 10km - 5km - 10km - 5km - 7.2km. Fusion IP Paris: Each year a BDS from one of the schools organises Fusion IP Paris. This sports tournament based on major team sports (rugby, basketball, football, etc.) brings together nearly 1,000 students from the 6 member schools of the Institute. A student evening closes this beautiful inter-school day.

In short, to create a sense of belonging for the students!

The association was officially created on September 19, 2021. At the beginning, the BDE team did not have all the board members, however, during the month of October, they managed to find more motivated people to join the team, and were able to have 18 board members.

The team worked hard to give more fun and joy to the students of the Institute and help them feel more connected to the school.

The BDE team has worked on events such as «Barbecue Night», «Museum Excursion», «Movie Nights», «Easter Meal», etc...

To stay or be in contact with the BDE, several solutions:

IP Paris BDE proposes, among other things, the IP Paris Buddy Program which puts new students in contact with a buddy who has already been on campus for at least a year.

The objective is not only to create social connections, but also to share knowledge about life and studies in IP Paris environment. Buddies will talk to each other online before classes start and will stay in touch throughout the year.

You are invited to participate in this great adventure by sending an email to buddyprogram.ipparis@gmail.com.

You can also fill out this form.

One week after your registration, you will be sponsored with a buddy who may share some of your interests!

Associations within IP Paris perimeter

Numerous inter-school student initiatives have led students from the Institute and its member schools to create associations within the IP Paris perimeter.

These associations are in the process of being created, but the objective is to offer even more events and services to enhance the student life shared by all students on campus.

The Ekiden du Platal and the ASTER Forum of responsible companies are examples of this.

IP Paris Alumni

Join the IP Paris Alumni Association, the alumni community to connect our networks, help each other, share our experiences and develop professional collaborations!

More than a simple career service, the IP Paris Alumni Association brings together a community of commitment between current and former students of IP Paris, connects the networks of the schools, contributes to the influence of IP Paris in France and internationally in the professional and academic world.

There are many opportunities for exchanges, meetings and knowledge sharing. Come and take an active part in building your community!

YOUR INTERNATIONAL MOBILITY CONTACT

The European Commission's Erasmus+ program promotes mobility in Europe and abroad for students (periods of study or internship), teaching staff, and all staff of higher education institutions.

The Commission provides financial support to students during their stay abroad in order to enable them to develop linguistic, intercultural and professional skills that promote both personal development and better integration into the European job market. Funding in the form of grants/scholarships is managed and distributed by the student's home institution of higher education.

The Erasmus+ grant can be combined with many other grants and scholarships (as long as they are not from the European Union).

Currently, the funding obtained by Institut Polytechnique de Paris covers the academic period 2021-2022 and the first semester of 2022-2023. They are reserved in priority for internships in European Union countries. They are distributed within the limits of available credits.

If your program includes an internship and you plan to do it abroad in agreement with your academic supervisor, you can contact mobility.international@ip-paris.fr with details of your project (destination country, host organization, planned dates of stay, internship subject, number of ECTS to be validated).

Information can also be found on the internet page:

www.ip-paris.fr/education/international/partir-letranger-avec-erasmus

If you are planning to go abroad for the year 2022-2023 (in particular from January 2023), the types of stays that can be financed (country of destination, internships or exchanges, etc.) and the timetable for submitting applications will be published shortly on the web page as soon as the amount of the grant allocated to IP Paris is known.

YOUR GENDER EQUALITY ADVISOR

As a major player in society, the world of higher education and research takes interest in the issue of equality between women and men. We are aware that, like any institution of higher education and research, we are not immune to discrimination or harassment, either for staff or for students.

Thus, each of the Institute's member schools is a signatory to the Charter for Gender Equality of the Conférence des Grandes Ecoles. The text of the Charter affirms that the equality of women and men is a fundamental right for all, and constitutes a capital value for democracy. It commits to act mainly in three areas:

- Implementing gender equality;
- Raising students' awareness of gender equality and gender issues
- Developing an upstream attractiveness policy, particularly for students.

The fight against gender inequality is beginning to bear fruit and the Institute intends to voluntarily and sustainably join this approach.

To this end, each school has appointed gender equality advisors responsible for the gender equality action plan and the prevention of sexist and sexual violence.

These advisors have also set up bodies at your service on campus and within the member schools. .

In order to free the word and accompany victims, in addition to the appointment of gender equality referents, have also been set up:

- Awareness-raising actions with each student
- A reporting platform available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, allowing for the handling, by the listening unit, of all reports, including sexual and gender-based violence, harassment (moral or sexual) and all forms of discrimination
- A listening unit for all forms of gender-based and sexual violence

Institut Polytechnique de Paris is a diverse and open institute, which must be uncompromising in its respect for the values of inclusion of all sensibilities, respect for people and human dignity.

IP PARIS INTERNATIONAL CENTER OF FRENCH LANGUAGE AND CULTURE

In 2021, Institut Polytechnique de Paris created with the help of the language departments of the Schools the International Center of French Language and Culture IP Paris.

The main objective of this center is to promote excellence for all internationals coming to the Institut Polytechnique de Paris (students and doctoral students in particular), in all aspects of their experience of French and Francophone language and culture, through:

- Innovative digital courses that are free and open to all, complementary to those offered by the various Languages and Cultures departments. For example, the MOOC («massive open online course») of intermediate French B1-B2 Studying in France will allow all those who wish to do so to develop their language skills, while discovering a variety of cultural content useful for life in France. A 2nd Mooc of French language and culture at an advanced level (C1-C2) will be launched soon: Comprendre la France
- An annual Advanced Short Story Competition open to all, at the crossroads of literature and science. Each year, the subject is about a scientific question, and its societal and ethical issues. A new Francophonies category allows all budding writers whose French is a foreign or second language to submit a short story. The winning short stories receive awards at a ceremony at the Pantheon in Paris and are published in a collection by Les Presses.
- Cultural events on campus (conferences, invitations to personalities, film screenings followed by debates)
- Cultural visits (museums, neighborhoods, landmarks)
- Theater outings
- workshops on relevant topics integrating the cultural and intercultural dimensions of IP Paris campus life
- Writing workshops offered by writers
- Partnerships (inter-program) to converse in French

The center aims to promote discussions, exchanges of ideas, and debates among the entire IP Paris community (French, Francophone, and international), in order to encourage better cultural and linguistic adaptation and to nurture intercultural exchanges on major topics involving scientific issues and that raise societal and ethical concerns.

Notable sites near campus

Sandstone quarry in the La Troche district of Palaiseau

The La Troche quarry has been listed as a major geological site since 2007. It is the last sandstone quarry of such fine quality that can be seen in the north of Essonne.

Located in the heart of the Eugène Chanlon park, this site has been renovated in recent years. Enjoy a walk along this major ecological corridor with benches and educational signs.

The La Troche sandstone quarry is also an authorized rock climbing site. As long as you don't carve artificial handholds, use a minimum of chalk and respect the wildlife and vegetation on the rocks, you can take advantage of this unique geological site to climb in a natural environment.

This climbing site is unique in that it is located between the slab and the cliffs with its structure facing the quarry and boulders measuring 5 meters high on average.

To get there from campus, just take the following route:

- Take Boulevard des Maréchaux and continue for 650 meters
- Turn onto the road on your left and continue for 170 meters
- Turn left onto Chemin du Rocher de la Vauve and continue for 280 meters
- Enter Orsay and continue on Rue Charles Gounod for 220 meters
- Turn slightly left onto Rue de la Corniche and continue for 90 meters
- Turn slightly right onto Rue de la Martinière and continue for 110 meters
- Turn right onto Rue de la Vauve and continue for 75 meters
- Turn left onto Rue de Corbeville and continue for 5 meters

Viaduc des Fauvettes

The Fauvettes Viaduct is located in a green valley nestled between prairies and a forest of chestnut trees. It is a railway viaduct that has been out of use since the Second World War, over which a simple walking trail now passes. The site is generally shady, but there are also some pillars in the sun.

Since it was renovated (in 2004) and reopened to the public, it offers approximately one hundred climbing routes, most of which are longer than 20 meters, and up to 36 meters on the central pillars. Many routes with a 5+ and 6 level.

N118 and the Bures sur Yvette exit or A10 and the Bures sur Yvette exit.

Without entering Bures sur Yvette, follow the direction "Gometz le Chatel" (D988 - Route de Chartres).

RER B train toward Saint-Rémy-les-Chevreuses, Bures/Yvette stop. It's about a 25 minute-trip from Denfert-Rochereau, then a 15-minute walk.

At the RER exit, walk along the railway line on Chemin de la Croix de Bures. At the cross, cross the street to walk along Rue de Montjay on the sidewalk on the right-hand side of the street. When you get to a bench, turn right into the woods and pick up the walking trail, which goes to the left. Go under the tunnel, then continue until you reach the viaduct - you will arrive by pillar 1.

Maison Atelier Foujita (Home and Studio)

In 1960, Foujita purchased a small country house in Villiers-le-Bâcle in the Chevreuse Valley, which he restored over the course of a year. He renovated it entirely, reserving the attic space for his studio. It was there that he would design his last major work: Notre-Dame-de-la-Paix Chapel in Reims.

In 1991, his wife Kimiyo donated the home to the Essonne Departmental Council. Kept unchanged since the artist's death in 1968, it has been restored and open to the public since 2000.

The house reveals the artist's secret universe and sources of inspiration. There, Foujita, a man of wide culture and insatiable curiosity, gathered an array of objects collected during his travels and from the various people he met. To visit the Foujita home and studio, simply take bus 91-10 toward the Orly airport for 2 stops; at the Camille Claudel stop, take bus 91-11 toward the Saint Quentin bus station and get off at the Rond point - Maison Foujita stop. From there it is just a ten-minute walk to the home and studio. www.fondation-foujita.org/la-maison-atelier-foujita-3/

Domaine de Chamarande

The Chamarande Departmental Estate is a one-of-a-kind landscape heritage and cultural site. In the 20th century it was successively the original center of the scout movement in France, a worker's production cooperative with Auguste Mione, and a coalition of associations in the 1970s; it was a place for experimentation and utopias in constant dialogue with society.

In 2001, the Departmental Council of Essonne sought to make this iconic site – which had been owned by the Department since 1978 but closed to the general public – a leading cultural attraction for Essonne responsible for “reviving contemporary artistic creation using its natural environment.”

The largest public garden in Essonne (98 hectares) and a heritage landscape space awarded the “remarkable garden” label, it brings together an artistic and cultural center, the Departmental Archives and an accommodation center for school groups, the Auguste Mione Center. The fact that the site is free, offers easy access with an RER train station 200 meters away, has varied landscapes, is open 365 days a year and features an eclectic range of high quality and accessible programming, makes it truly a space for cultural democratization.

Châteaux of the Chevreuse Valley

The Chevreuse Valley is home to some beautiful castles that you can visit from campus.

Château de Breteuil

The Château de Breteuil or Château des Contes de Perrault (Perrault's Fairy Tales) is set in the center of the natural park of the Chevreuse Valley, in the south of the Yvelines department, 35 km from Paris and 20 km from Versailles. The Château de Breteuil brings to life everyday scenes of a family at the heart of French history through 50 beautifully crafted wax figures. Seven of Perrault's fairy tales are portrayed in the outbuildings.

The grounds cover 75 hectares and include a walk through remarkable trees, several gardens, a labyrinth and play and picnic areas. Open daily.

Château de Courson

The Domaine de Courson, a light-filled Grand Siecle residence, offers visitors a wooded country setting.

Step into the heart of a château that belonged to a General of the Empire, and explore remarkable works, from 17th century paintings to Directoire-style furniture and Aubusson tapestries. Listen as guides tell the story of an extraordinary site.

Take a bucolic stroll through its English-style gardens, designed by Louis-Martin Berthault, and enjoy remarkable trees and fragrant roses.

Château de Dourdan

The castle was completed in 1222 by King Philippe Auguste of France, replacing a wood structure dating from the times of Hugues Capet.

Dourdan is one of the only 13th century fortresses in the Ile-de-France region to have preserved most of its defensive structures: dry moats, curtain walls, towers, keep. It was listed as a Historic Monument in 1964, and has undergone several periods of restoration since then.

The Guyot family, who owned the château from 1863 to 1969, refurbished the former salt store built in the 18th century by the Marquis of Verteillac, to make it into a living space.

This residence, which has been turned into a museum, has retained much of its Gothic Revival and eclectic decor. The house-museum received the Museum of France label in 2003 and now houses extraordinary collections displayed in chronological and thematic order, accounts of the Dourdan estate: furniture, ancient paintings, prints, paintings, sculptures and more.

Château de la Madeleine

The Château de la Madeleine, located on the hills of Chevreuse, offers stunning views of the Yvette valley. The magnificent fortress was built between the 11th and 14th centuries.

The Maison du Parc was built inside the castle's walls. The office of the Regional National Park is housed within the castle's walls and is accessible to partners and individuals by appointment.

Château de Mauvières

The beautiful white silhouette of Château de Mauvières' Louis XV architecture, surrounded by a lush garden, can be seen from departmental road 58. The family home of Cyrano de Bergerac, which would later inspire Edmond Rostand's famous character, the château has maintained its 18th century charm: an English-style garden and large outbuildings including a Louis XIII dovecote. French-style aquatic gardens, contemporary sculptures.

St Jean de Beauregard Estate

The Saint-Jean de Beauregard estate features a château and gardens spanning several acres.

The Saint-Jean de Beauregard château is a favorite destination for garden-lovers from around the world and is located in the Haute Vallée de Chevreuse Regional Natural Park.

Remarkably well-preserved, it has maintained all the charm and elegance of its classical 17th century setting. Set in a wooded and landscaped park, the powerful and austere structure of the château – with its seven courtyards, a park, and an almost perfectly square-shaped French-style garden that houses a chapel, outbuildings, a vegetable garden, a dovecote, an orangery, a watering hole, an ice house, moats – features all the essential items for everyday life in the 17th century.
